NOON REPORTS.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27th.—SENATE.—Mr. Pendleton submitted a resolution requesting the President to communicate to the Senate whether any supervisor or supervisors of census, appointed by and with the advice of the Senate, have been removed from office by him, or with his consent, and whether a successor to fill the vacancy caused by such removal has been appointed by him, or with his consent.

Mr. Edmunds said he would like to see that resolution in print, as there was a little other information of the same kind that he would add to the resolution, which went over.

HOUSE.—The morning hour being dispensed with, the House went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Simonton in the chair, on the Sundry Civil appropriation bill.

Mr. Goode offered an amendment, appropriating $20,000 for the continuation of repairs on public buildings at Fortress Monroe. Ruled out as not being germane.

Kentucky Law.

LOUISVILLE, May 27.—Judge Baxter yesterday delivered an opinion in the case of Adams Express against the Nashville and Chattanooga and Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington Railroads. Injunction was issued as prayed for by the complainants, and if any question arises as to the proper measure of compensation to be paid by the Express Company, such question may be presented to the court, but in the meantime the defendant is enjoined from disturbing the business of the Express Company or from refusing to transmit its express matter under charge of its messengers.

Racing.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27th.—First race, three-quarter mile dash, won by Lexington—time 1:15¼; second, one-and-a-half mile dash, won by Tillie C—time 2:13¾; third, two-and-a-half mile dash—won by Neapolitan, beating Leon, Dunbar and Clara—time 4:02; fourth, one-and-five-eighth mile dash, won by James Snowden—time 3:06¼.

Missouri Democrats.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—The Democratic Convention adjourned without receiving the report of the Committee on Resolutions. The delegation was claimed by both Tilden and anti-Tilden partisans.

Shot Gun Practice.

ATLANTA, May 27.—Col. McCallum of Hampton, Ga., was killed by the town marshal, McKneely, yesterday. In the afternoon the two men had just had a fight, and McKneely procured a shot gun and killed McCallum.

The Afghan War.

LONDON, May 27.—A Cabul dispatch says the unfettered offer of the Ameership has been made to Abdurraharan Khan by the British Mission. Abdurraharan wishes to consult the chiefs before accepting.

The Indians.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A Denver (Col.) special reports a fight between General Hatch's forces and Victoria's band, in which the Indians lost from thirty to fifty-five killed.

Greenback Nominations.

CHARLESTOWN, W. VA., May 27.—The Greenback State Convention met yesterday, and nominated a full State ticket, composed mainly of democratic greenbackers.

Striking Miners.

DENVER, (COL.), May 27th.—2,700 miners struck for advance wages, and stopped others. The arms of the Leadville military are in the hands of the strikers.

Hot.

BOSTON, May 27.—The thermometer ranged from 96 to 101 degrees throughout New England yesterday.

MIDNIGHT REPORTS.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27th.—SENATE.—Mr. Jonas, of Louisiana, presented a memorial of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce asking for the establishment of ocean mail service in steam vessels between ports of the United States and ports on this continent South of the United States. Referred. After some discussion as to the expediency of appropriating such large sums for the erection of public buildings, a bill was passed appropriating $75,000 for public buildings at Toledo, Ohio.

On motion of Mr. Eaton, his bill for a tariff investigation commission to be appointed by the President, was taken up, but soon afterward was informally laid aside, and the Senate resumed the consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill. Amendments were adopted making appropriations for the experiments in the culture of tea and cotton, and for the manufacture of sugar from sorghum, corn stalks, &c. The bill was then passed, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. McCook offered an amendmend to appropriate $40,000 for the publication of official war records. Adopted.

Mr. Warner, of Ohio, offered an amendment striking out the clause authorizing the Secretary of War to negotiate with the legal representatives of the late Confederate Generals Bragg and Polk for the purchase of their private papers relating to the late war.

After a long debate, Mr. Warner's amendment was rejected. Attempts were made to insert in this clause the names of Generals Hood, Kearney and Reno, but they were all unsuccessful.

Mr. Goode, of Virginia, offered an amendment appropriating $125,000 for repairs to the sea-wall and buildings of timber sheds at Gosport Navy-yard, Virginia. Adopted.

After having considered ten pages of the bill, the committee rose.

Mr. Cobb, of Indiana, from the Appropriations Committee, reported the general deficiency bill, which was ordered to be printed and recommitted. It appropriates about $4,000,000. Adjourned.

The Baptist Mission Society.

SARATOGA, May 27.—At a meeting of the Baptist Home Mission Society this morning, a resolution endorsing the work of the American Sabbath School Association was adopted, it being stated that the same resolution was to be offered in the Methodist General Conference at Cincinnati, and in the Presbyterian General Assembly at Madison, Wisconsin. Fraternal delegates from the South Baptist Association, appointed at their late session at Lexington, Kentucky, were received, consisting of Rev. E. Calvin Williams, Eugene Levering, A. J. Lowne, A. J. Hires and G. O. Manning, of Maryland; L. A. Lattan and E. H. Sawyer, of Missouri; C. T. Bailey, of North Carolina; T. T. Eaton, John Pollard and A. O. Dickinson, of Virginia; J. O. Lowry, of Louisiana, C. A. Owen, of Louisiana, and J. H. Cuthbert, of Washington.

Some of them made brief addresses, to which Rev. R. S. Arthur, of New York, responded in behalf of the society, and among the pointed hits made, sent a short one at Rev. David Swing, for his article in the North American Review, on the failure of the Southern pulpit.

The committee on enrolment reported twenty-two States represented by 366 delegates.

The following officers were elected: President, Wm. Stickney, Washington; Vice-Presidents, J. L. Howard, Connecticut, John D. Rockfellow, Ohio; Treasurer, James B. Hoyt, Connecticut.

President Caldwell, of Vassar College, read a report of the committee on missions among non-English speaking people.

This was followed by an address by Rev. J. S. Gublemann, of Philadelphia, on "Work among Germans," and by Prof. J. A. Edgsen, of Chicago, on "Work among Scandinavians."

Paper Makers in Council.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 27.—At a monthly meeting of the printing paper makers' association yesterday, it was voted to firmly maintain the present schedule of prices for the various grades of their productions. No importations of foreign paper stock are now being made, and manufacturers anticipate an advance in domestic stock on this account; hence the necessity for maintaining prices. The Association also voted to shut down their mills for three weeks, commencing June 26th, and also three weeks in August.

Small Pox and Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Official information was received at the National Board of Health, that during the month of April seventy-four cases of yellow fever with fifty-eight deaths, and forty-two cases of small pox with eighteen deaths occurred at Santiago de Cuba. Out of one hundred and seventy-nine deaths from all causes for the week ending May 15th, nine deaths from yellow fever and sixteen deaths from small pox are reported from Havana.

Failure of Stock Dealers.

LONDON, May 27.—Clement Satterthwaite & Son, dealers in American Department on stock exchange, failed. Liabilities believed heavy. They were bears of Philadelphia and Reading Railroad stocks and closing their account was caused by advance this morning.

Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Senate to-day confirmed the nomination of D. M. Key, of Tennessee, to be United States Judge for the Eastern and Middle Districts of Tennessee, and that of J. G. Baptist to be postmaster at West Point, Mississippi.

Racing in England.

LONDON, May 27.—Race for two year olds, stakes won by Lorillard's Iroquois, beating Count De Lagrange's "Ethaem" easily by four lengths.

Kansas Democratic Conventions.

TOPEKA, May 27.—The Democratic Convention sends delegates to Cincinnati wholly uninstructed. Victory for no one. Strong friends of Seymour, Hendricks and Tilden are in the delegation.

Diplomatic.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The President to-day recognized Salvador Rizzo as Vice-Consul of Spain at Key West.

MERCHANT TAILORING.
GOOD ADVICE.

In the Shakespearian play of Hamlet, Polonius gives the following advice to his son Laertes, a mere youth who was about to depart on a tour through France:

"Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy, but not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy, for the apparel oft proclaims the man."

This was sound advice. No one can deny it; therefore I call the attention of the general public to the fact that I am prepared to fit up

THE DAILY NEWS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

FRIDAY.....MAY 28, 1880.

AN EDUCATIONAL FUND.

No measure before the present Congress has excited a deeper interest in the minds of the friends of true progress, than the bill of Mr. GOODE, of Virginia, to distribute the proceeds of the sales of the public lands among the States for the benefit of education. It is to be regretted that it was proposed in the year of the Presidential election; since that is a lost year for any legislation extensively beneficial. A feeling of terror besets both parties. Each is afraid to do anything lest it may inure to the benefit of the other. They thus stand at gaze, and the legislation of the country for all higher ends is utterly paralyzed.

It is not likely, however, that the measure could have been introduced sooner with any hope of success. When the Democratic party succeeded to power it found the Government full of violence and corruption. Its immediate duty was to ferret out and bring to justice the latter—no easy task; and then to bring and fix the Government within Constitutional limits—a task still more difficult, and yet imperfectly executed, since the Republicans have still control of the Executive Department. Not until these things were done did the way lie open for legislation looking to future benefits.

Mr. GOODE has divined the great need of the country, the South at least, with the insight of a true statesman. The concurrent sentiment and example of the foremost nations of the world, the higher plane upon which each generation in the progress of civilization is called to act, loudly proclaim the necessity of universal education. This sentiment is based upon the fact that education is not only the sole foundation of social progress; but is at the same time the best safeguard against crime, and the surest defence of public liberty. All theories of Government are reducible to two: the Government of the few, and the Government of the many. These two, under the forms of centralization and Democracy, are in perpetual conflict. The forces of centralization are always on the alert; they act by concert, and are compact and full-armed. With Democracy it is the very reverse; though its very existence depends upon ceaseless vigilance, that vigilance is exercised not by the people themselves, but is exercised by the press on their behalf. The press is thus the chief defence of a people for their liberties; but the press however faithful is impotent for good, unless education has prepared the people for the information and counsel which it brings. The voice of the living statesman is a powerful coadjutor; yet his voice can reach but few, and his wisest advice is useless without the press to bring it home to the public mind.

No State in the Union has cause to feel deeper interest in this bill than our own. The low standard of education, perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say the want of education in North Carolina, has been a grief to many of our people, long and deeply felt. It has influenced most prejudicially her history, her national character, the character of her citizens, her material development; indeed, in every way. Yet there has been since the war no time when the claims of this subject upon the public mind could be properly presented until now. The war left the State a wreck. Two thirds of her property had perished; her labor system had been destroyed; and thirty odd thousand of her sons, for the most part in the prime of life, had died on the battle-field. There remained, too, hanging over her after the war an enormous debt; and Reconstruction left her groaning beneath the weight of a government under which she was fast sinking. Here, as in our national affairs, her efforts had to be addressed to the removal or amelioration of existing evils before we could look forward to future good. To these the attention of the people was directed. All have been dealt with in turn, and dealt with successfully. The State government has been reformed; the public debt has been compromised; a new labor system has been organized; and the last assessment shows an addition of millions to our resources within a few years. To replace the mournful breach in our population, a new generation has come on full the life and hope of early manhood. We have legislated wisely with reference to past grievances and evils, and in our struggles for a better order of things, the kindly aid of nature has not been wanting. Prosperity, if on no great scale, yet assured in fact, obtains throughout the State. We have at length reached a point for a new and onward movement towards what is immeasurably the greatest interest of society, the peculiar and pressing need of the State, universal education.

But when the cause of education is advocated, there are those who start back and cry, "That means taxation." From whom does this cry come? from the people or the would-be leaders of the people? We have been cursed in this State by a class of men who have signalized their fealty to the people, not by studying, proposing and laboring to promote great plans for the advancement and elevation of the State, but by making the very welkin ring with the cry of "Retrenchment!" by holding themselves out as the watch-dogs of the public treasury, the peculiar guardians of the money of the simple and unsuspecting people. For the former role, talent, will, courage and devotion to the public good are necessary—a purpose which cannot be turned aside by any clamor or misrepresentation—which never, amidst discouragements and difficulties, "bates one jot of heart or hope"—which never relaxes its energies till its goal is attained: for the latter the most brainless demagogue that ever poured his vapid and shallow pretensions upon the empty air is all sufficient. Yet this latter class go everywhere; they are full of prate, and by their flux of babble oftentimes fatally prejudice great measures before their merits can be known. But in the just scorn which we feel and express for this class of men, let not our position be misunderstood. When the public expenditures are excessive—as they were during Radical rule in this State—the demand for retrenchment is just and patriotic. When expenditures have been brought within proper limits—above all, when they have been reduced below the rate of fair compensation, as in one or two instances they certainly have been in this State, then the demand becomes idle, senseless and destructive of public and private interest. The public service would, if their standard were adopted, become the convenient refuge of men without ability, without acquirements—in short, of mere political "Cheap-Johns." The true measure of public expenditure is easy to fix; it has been thus announced by one of North Carolina's greatest statesmen; we quote from memory: "Expenditures brought to the lowest limit, consistent with a thoroughly efficient public service, and an adequate support of the public institutions."

But what if it does mean taxation? Do these men think that our people suppose anything good can be had for the mere asking? That the people of North Carolina, alone of all civilized people, are unwilling to submit to burdens to procure commensurate blessings? Nay, burdens rendered necessary for their own self-respect and self-defence? If that be so, it is high time, indeed, that the "schoolmaster were abroad." Such suppositions as these do a grievous injustice to our people: it is just such which have brought our State to its present low level. We are of those who believe that our people would not hesitate at the cost if the material advantages which would flow from a system of sound education—such as improved labor, the inflow of immigration, the introduction of new branches of industry, the expansion of manufactures, the superior excellence of our products, were alone considered. Certain we are that when we add to this consideration the moral, social, and intellectual advantages of which such a system, if brought home to all our people, would be productive, the money necessary would be cheerfully voted.

But while it is our bounden duty to carry out this great work, we should be unjust to ourselves did we fail to make use of all resources which may be legitimately derived from other quarters. The most certain, proper and just source of supply for supplementing our resources is pointed out in Mr. GOODE'S bill. It is in the line of honored precedent. The principle of the bill is the same with that so inseparably connected with the name of HENRY CLAY, and a similar measure was repeatedly sanctioned by the Congress of the United States. In advocating an appeal to Congress we in no way favour "any notion of a power in Congress to levy and collect taxes and distribute the amount among the several States." This language will be recognized as that of Mr. CLAY in his speech on land distribution in the United States Senate in 1835. We define our position in his own words, and on the same occasion: "The government holds the public domain in trust for the common benefit of all the States, and it is competent to provide by law that the trustee shall make distribution of the proceeds among those entitled to the beneficial interest." Mr. Clay's bill for this purpose became a law in 1841, and the distributive share of North Carolina constituted nearly the whole available fund for our common school system before the war—a fund now utterly lost to us. The proceeds of the sale of the public lands are not needed to liquidate the public debt; indeed, are not in the slightest degree relied on. Shortly after the war when the public debt was at its maximum, Congress donated a large amount of public lands to the State, the proceeds of which were used in this State to revive the University. The only other use which has been made of the public lands by Congress, has been to build up giant corporations, which have employed the colossal wealth acquired by the bounty of the government as a vast corruption fund to accomplish their own jobs—to mould the legislation of the General Government and the States to their own purposes. By appropriating the proceeds of these lands to the purpose of education, we meet the most imperative need of our people, and by the same stroke disarm to that extent the most threatening danger of the times.

SUBSCRIBERS TO HALE'S WEEKLY or to the WEEKLY NEWS who wish to receive the DAILY NEWS instead, may have the WEEKLY sent to friends during the unexpired term, or be credited on the daily with the balance due them, as they may prefer.

POLITICAL LETTER-WRITERS.

This newspaper is intended to be a mouth piece for the people, but as it furnishes the mouth it respectfully requests that the pieces be short. Those who make them do not run daily newspapers, and have time, as editors have not, to say a great deal in a few words. Fifteen or twenty lines ought to serve the purpose of any person who wishes to eulogize FOWLE, or JARVIS, or any other statesman, and the fifteen lines will be read while the column will not be read, and what is perhaps more to the purpose, the fifteen lines will be printed and the column will not be printed. That number of lines will hold as many eulogistic adjectives as are desirable, and the other sort of adjectives is not admissible. No masquerading ancient Greek or Roman, however honorable the name he bear, can be permitted in these columns to denounce respectable gentlemen, representative North Carolinians, as fit subjects for the Penitentiary in advance of the Convention, and after the Convention hold them up to the people as models of patriots, worthy of highest praise. All the good that occurs to the industrious writers about candidates may be said; but falsehoods, whether direct or by inuendo, about their competitors, may not be said. This is a Democratic newspaper, not a personal organ, and it is no part of its mission to destroy public confidence in the party or in its leaders, and so far as it can it will prevent injustice to any one of them. The man who wishes to call Governor JARVIS a thief or a conniver at theft, or to denounce Judge FOWLE as a traitor to his people or as a receiver of stolen goods, will please take his wares to some other market. Unfortunately, there is no lack of such markets.

In the matter of length it may be as well to say here that we have felt bound to make a single exception. The peculiar merits of the Rev. JEREMIAH CHURCHILL, D. D., require more space than is ordinarily necessary for a proper setting forth, and it is allowed this morning. We wish our candidate to be acceptable to all denominations, not merely to some one sect, and we think that Dr. CHURCHILL fills the bill. He belongs to all of them; you who pay your money can take your choice, and CHURCHILL must be chosen every time.

THE WINSTON Sentinel says that "a Forsyth correspondent writing to THE RALEIGH NEWS says this county is for JARVIS for Governor and WALTER CLARK for Attorney-General. If the other correspondents of THE NEWS are not more accurate in their estimates of the sentiments of the people, then, indeed, but little reliance can be placed upon them. Certainly if the Democrats in this county are decided in their preference for anything, it is for FOWLE for Governor and WATSON for Attorney-General." We suppose that the correspondents of THE NEWS are about as good guessers as any going. Of our opinion of the value of the guesses that get into print, readers of THE NEWS are fully advised. Of the value of the guess referred to by the Sentinel we know nothing, not even knowing the name of the guesser. We have had no guess sent to us by anybody in Forsyth, and we have published none. In fact, at this writing we do not recollect that anybody has guessed through these columns about the politics of any county.

THE TAKING of the census will begin next Tuesday, the 1st of June. People can help the work greatly by answering promptly and frankly the questions of the enumerators instead of attempting to conceal the facts sought for. Strange as it may seem it is still true that efforts at concealment are often made. Many persons, partly from ignorance, partly from a reluctance to say anything about matters which they believe to be of solely private concern, sometimes perhaps from pure surliness, are inclined to resent what they look upon as an intrusion and to baffle inquiries which they regard as impertinent. If the people would understand that the enumerators are not tax-collectors or assessment inquisitors in disguise, that they are not looking for names to put on jury lists, and if courtesy should be observed and good temper preserved by both questioner and questioned, the labor of taking the census would be lightened and its accuracy promoted.

THE Eastern Record is the name of a neat little daily paper just started at Newbern, by HENRY C. POOL, Esq. It is well gotten up and has our best wishes.

A Leased Out Office.

[From the New York World.]

The selection of Mr. Maynard as Postmaster General recalls the curious hold upon this office of Tennessee and the adjacent States of Kentucky and Ohio. Tennessee has had three incumbents of the office—Judge Key under Hayes, Aaron V. Brown under Buchanan, and Cave Johnson under Polk. Kentucky has had Wm. T. Barry and Amos Kendall under Jackson, Kendall also under Van Buren, and Charles A. Wickliffe under Harrison, while it is understood that Mr. Tilden promised the place to Mr. McHenry, of the same State, in 1876. Ohio has had ex-Governor Denison under Lincoln, John McLean under John Quincy Adams as well as under Monroe, and R. J. Meigs under Madison. So that the region between the Alleghanies and the Mississippi has filled the Cabinet office of Postmaster General under ten different Administrations and during a period of about fifty years since 1812.

A New Man and a New View.

REV. DR. CHURCHILL FOR AUDITOR.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

DENOMINATIONAL VIEW, May 26.

MR. EDITOR:—The good people of this section daily read with much pleasure and pride the praises that are bestowed upon the worthy sons of the Old North State who have a sufficient amount of patriotism and love of country to allow their names mentioned in connection with positions of honor, trust and profit, and it fills our hearts with gratitude, when we think the Beneficent Ruler has placed us in a country and a State which so much abounds with men of sterling integrity, christian graces and eminent fitness for the highest positions of our country.

But, sir, while each eulogy we have seen and each praise we have heard strike sympathetic chords in our hearts, it is with feelings of regret and we had almost said mortification to us, that no one has mentioned the name of our dear old friend Rev. Jeremiah Churchill, D. D., for any position; and, Mr. Editor, I ask a little space in your excellent paper to beseech the Democratic party of North Caroiina, in acknowledgment of his manifold qualifications and in honor to the Denominational View section of the State, to give, by acclamation, the nomination of State Auditor to the Rev. Jeremiah Churchill, D. D.

For the benefit of those unacquainted with the worthy gentleman, if there are any such in the State, we will say that his late honored sire was a worthy divine of that branch of the Baptist Church commonly known as the Hard Shell, and that his earliest recollections pertain to a certain ceremony in which the pedal extremities played an important part. His mother, strange to say, was an ardent adherent to the doctrines and practices of that much abused church—the Church of Rome, and she had an abiding faith in the infallibility of the Pope, though she was once heard to remark that if Elder Churchill should happen to be chosen by the College of Cardinals to fill that honored position, she would require some reassurance on that point. As a compromise between the elder and his papal spouse young Jeremiah was sent to school at a neighboring village, which was under the charge of the rector of that parish, and at the next visitation of the Bishop of the diocese young Jeremiah, having learned the Lord's prayer and the Apostles' creed, was one of the confirmation class. There is no incident worthy of notice in the life of our friend until he went to college. There he was known as a staunch Episcopalian, going so far as to observe the season of lent on one occasion for at least three consecutive days. But unfortunately being caught one night with a party of students who had been indulging a little too freely, he was called before the faculty and summarily expelled. Being overcome with grief and shame he, with his associates, attempted to drown their feelings in the first excitement they could find, which fortunately was a revival in progress at a Methodist camp meeting near by. Jeremiah, whose sensibilities were always tender, was soon led to the mourner's bench and a profession followed. His mind then reverted to his youth and he came to the conclusion that his former baptism by his rector-tutor was of no effect; so he prevailed upon a Baptist friend to immerse him. He then joined the Methodist church and shortly afterward the ministry, the duties of which led him to the sand hills among the Scotch, where he found a congenial woman for a wife in all but one thing—her "blue nose" proclivities were most too strong. When the young divine discovered he could succeed in his love affairs in no other way, he manfully admitted that Arminianism was never to his tastes, and with alacrity subscribed to the doctrines promulgated by Calvin. Shortly after which the honored degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by a Colored University.

A man with so many qualifications is rarely to be found and is entitled to a place at the front. We can all see at a glance how eminently fitted these many and varied qualifications make him for the position of Auditor. He can audit claims against the State to the satisfaction of all, and by reason of his position in the capitol he would be of incalculable service during the session of the General Assembly, for with him as Auditor it would be useless to go out into the City of Raleigh to get a chaplain, for the Doctor could open the daily sessions with prayer to suit all branches of Christians, and his ministrations among the sick members would be graciously received by all; and should there be any member who is given over to a reprobate mind, to him we would say, in our humble opinion the Doctor is not much of a Christian either. So let us give him the nomination, by all means, and please all of the ORTHODOX.

FROM RALEIGH TO NEW YORK.

RIGHT WORTHY GRAND LODGE OF GOOD TEMPLARS—NOTES ON THE WAY—SUPPER WITH PRESIDENT HAYES AND CARL SCHURZ—TYPE-SETTING MACHINES, &C., &C.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

NEW YORK, May 25, 1880.

EDITOR NEWS:—"Who will be the nominee for Governor?" was asked at every station from Raleigh to Weldon, and discussed along the route. Jarvis and Fowle had about equal chances till we arrived at Weldon. What a relief, after a day's ride on the cars, it is to get on a steamer of the Bay Line! And yet some of our party failed to enjoy anything on account of sea-sickness; a trouble that may occur, and yet might be avoided, in our opinion, by the use of a little carbonate of soda, and proper care about diet.

At Fortress Monroe, or Old Point Comfort, we were joined by and Carl Schurz, with attendant escorts. It was my first sight of the President, and I was disappointed in seeing a plain looking traveler, with an open face and pleasing, quiet manner.

At 11 a. m. Friday we arrived in Philadelphia and were kindly greeted by our relatives. Of all cities of our acquaintance this is the most cleanly and well kept; and in this connection if I mistake not, infectious or contagious diseases seldom find lodgement there. The Board of Aldermen of Raleigh cannot do anything that will so bless our people and add to our city as that of providing at once for sewerage and full water supply. Of course it will take a great deal of money, but life, health and prosperity are at stake, considerations that are higher than filling offices, erecting lamps, taxing dogs, stalling cows, pounding hogs, &c.

IN NEW YORK.

Saturday afternoon at 7 o'clock we arrived at the Rossmore Hotel, corner 42d St., and Broadway, N. Y. city, where I found a number of delegates to the Right W. G. Lodge of Good Templars quartered. On Sunday morning we heard Henry Ward Beecher, and at night, Talmage. I was very favorably impressed with both. The sermon of Beecher was not only grand oratory but full of deep thought to us. Talmage is dramatical, throwing out his thoughts in blocks. The evangelist Harrison, a young man, was with Talmage and took charge of the meeting after the sermon. Full of machinery and highly nervous he did not impress in the short time we looked on.

On Monday we called on Mr. E. J. Hale, and enjoyed a pleasant time in his company, as so many North Carolinians visiting New York have done. During the day Governor Vance, Captain A. B. Andrews and Mr. W. J. Best called at the same place.

TYPE SETTING MACHINES.

Taking a letter of introduction from Mr. Hale, we visited the printing house of Mr. John A. Gray, and through the kindness of Mr. Gray, Jr., were shown through the large printing house and book-bindery, examining particularly the type setting and distributing machines, fifteen of which are in actual operation there, each managed by a man and two boys, and each setting about 50,000 or distributing 100,000 ems per day. They are made to run by steam and a setter and distributor cost $2,500. That these machines are a success is beyond question, but of course they will never be needed except in offices having steam and doing a very large business in book or newspaper printing. By the use of these machines the American Book Exchange of this city is enabled to reprint any standard work at a small cost. The Tribune newspaper office has three of these machines in operation.

RIGHT WORTHY GRAND LODGE.

This morning at 10 o'clock the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars assembled in Lyric Hall, Sixth Avenue, near Forty-second street, with the largest delegation that I have ever seen present. All of the officers were present. Among the distinguished persons present are Sam'l Capper, of England, Dr. Oronapyateka, of Canada, Col. Hickman and Col. Cheves, of Kentucky, S. B. Chase and Dr. Babcock, of Pennsylvania, A. S. Draper and J. N. Stearns, of New York, and a host of others.

Last night a reception meeting was held in Lyric Hall, and short addresses delivered by representatives from the various jurisdictions.

To-night a welcome meeting will be held at Cooper Institute. N. B. B.

A Woman's Words on Dancing.

SWEET CONSISTENCY.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

UP THE COUNTRY, May 26, 1880.

"Aramiuta, my dear, I do wish you would not allow your cousin Walter to be so familiar, holding your hand, and putting his arm so affectionately round your waist; rather too much so if he is your cousin, and it is in private. I am shocked, my love, that you allow it!" "Lor! mamma, how horribly stupid and tame that is, while you allow me to dance the round dances—whole nights—with perfect strangers, face to face, hand clasped in hand, with head reclined on his shoulder—how lovely! O, isn't it? The only difference I can see is, this kind is set to music, and one has an audience in sympathy that heightens the ecstacy! That is all; and that you oppose in the one case and approve in the other." [Exit mamma.]

It seems "mankind is broken loose from moral bands" and social moorings, that once were the conservators of virtue and the safeguard of impulsive youth. While I do not hold that all dancing is repugnant to virtue; that youthful spirits must be repressed, and their natures dwarfed by puritanical morals, straight-laced proprieties, and morbid sensibilities, I dare declare that the most sober, sensible people, feel that a christian civilization is outraged by the abuses of dancing in this age of refinement(?) The darling daughter who is shielded by parental, loving watchfulness at home; spared the household drudgery, clad in warmest attire and health guarded with jealous care, lest cold may pierce or winds blow too roughly,—is sent adrift to the ball-room in airy garments that invite to disease and death;—

"And these dainty limbs which Nature lent
For gentle usage and soft delicacy,"

move through the mazes of the dance—mayhap with some dandiprat, scarce fit to black her father's boots—weary and worn, profaning the hours of "Nature's sweet restorer," steeped soul and senses in senseless infatuation until morning dawn.

The propriety and fitness of things; the importance of moderation, health and good morals is so manifest, how can we fail to recognize and practice what is so congruous to an enlightened reason and conscience? Where and to whom must be attached the blame of this social blight if not to unwisely indulgent parents? They must bear their full share of reproach for want of firmness and not ordering their households aright, and more for the demoralization of the "times so sadly out of joint." L.

WAIFS:—

"No," she said, as she sipped the cream it would take his last dime to pay for; "no, I never eat cake myself, but ma says she is getting awfully hungry waiting for a piece of my wedding cake."

A man was sawing wood in a back yard. He severed two sticks as thick as your wrist and then went into the house. "Mary," said he to his wife, "my country needs me; there's no use of talking; we've just got to slaughter all these Injuns; no true patriot can be expected to hang around a woodpile these days." "John," said his wife, "if you fight Injuns as well as you saw wood and support your family, it would take one hundred and eighteen like you to capture one squaw, and you'd have to catch her when she had the ague and throw pepper in her eyes." John went back to the wood-pile wondering who told his wife all about him.

Simon Cameron's Ways.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Herald.]

HARRISBURG, PA., May 21, 1880.—Of the three or four venerable statesmen and politicians, including Horatio Seymour and Thurlow Weed, whose homes are as Meccas to younger Americans ambitious in their turn for public honors, Simon Cameron is one of the most youthful and sympathetic in spirit, interesting, companionable and pleasant to meet at all times. Years ago in Washington, soon after Mr. Blaine was first elected Speaker, the latter gave at his home one evening a reception specially restricted to "members of the press." When the denizens of Newspaper Row, together with Washington editors and editors from other cities then visiting the capital, thronged into Mr. Blaine's sumptuous parlors and upper chambers, not a few were perplexed by the presence of a number of gray veterans in Congress in addition to recognized members of the craft. It turned out, though, that these supposed intruders were all entitled to be present as journalists, every one of them, including the host himself, having owned or edited a newspaper at some former time. Senator Cameron, whose editorial experience began in Pennsylvania when he was twenty-two years old, was first among the "ancients" to be hailed when the wine went round. A crowd of brilliant and saucy young correspondents in the back parlor shouted "Cameron! Cameron!" made the shout a toast, drank it and called for a speech. The Senator, just in the mood for fun, leaned rakishly against the folding door jamb between the two parlors, and twirling a half filled champagne glass between his fingers said:—

"I don't know my friends, that I have anything to say that would divert you (indeed, I hardly think men ought to be diverted from strict attention to a tipple like this as long as it lasts). And so, why am I called upon? Well, I must suppose it's because I've lived a little longer and had more experience than most of you and you think I can give you young gentlemen some valuable advice."

Cries of "That's it!" "Christian advice, Senator!" "Moral advice!"

"So I thought. And now, as I look at all these youngsters before me and think of the successful careers of this elderly crowd in the rear (the front drawing room at the Senator's back was by this time filled with listeners), I am reminded of a great moral maxim which has always seemed to work particularly well in the cases of successful politicians and journalists. To say this is also to say that superior skill and shrewdness are needed to make it work at all. These being provided, together with the suavity and cheek (the French call it chic, don't they?) which are said to be prominend traits in the outfit of a Washington correspondent of the day, I cordially commend the maxim to the mass of struggling virtue and ambition here assembled. It is as follows:—'Be Honest, as Long as Honesty is the Best Policy.'"

A shout of hearty laughter rang through the rooms at this grotesque sally, for no men could greet a jest at their own savoir faire more airily than those of Newspaper Row, nor was any other class of men better assured in this midst of current scandals of Senator Cameron's perfect honesty and honor.

FATHER EVANS.

WHY THE EDITOR OF THE CHRONICLE EVERY YEAR DECLINES TO RUN FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

[From the Milton Chronicle, 26th.]

We are again solicited to run for the Legislature. We prefer to run from it. It would take a mighty big mule to kick us in that direction—because we wouldn't suit this generation of fallen humanity.

You see we have a mind of our own. We believe in taxing Dogs instead of Sheep. And that wouldn't suit the people. We believe in sure-enough Public schools to educate the children of all classes, even at the expense of a tax on Dogs—and that wouldn't suit. We believe in offering inducements to Farmers to reclaim worn-out lands—and that wouldn't suit.—We believe in a State Fertilizing manufactory to be worked by Penitentiary convicts which will give the farmer fertilizers at one-third the present price—and that wouldn't suit. We believe in the county commissioners allowing home-kept paupers two mouthfuls of meat and bread a day instead of one, to keep them alive, and that wouldn't suit. We believe in making these commissioners bury the dead (paupers) instead of leaving the dead to dig their own graves. And that wouldn't suit. We believe in a law compelling these commissioners everywhere, except Caswell, (in counties where a paper is published) to publish annually an exhibit of the financial standing of the county—showing the taxpayers how their money went—who got it and for what. We would except Caswell, because Squire Jones is opposed to it, (for the reason that it would cost a trifle—say two or three cents a year to the tax-payer)—and that wouldn't suit. We would go for a law to establish inferior courts to try all dog-fights, petty thefts, &c., and leave the Superior courts to try only criminal cases involving life—so as to give the Superior court some chance to dispose of the civil docket—or we would go for holding one term of the Superior court expressly to try criminal cases and another expressly to dispose of civil cases. But none of these things would suit the people any more than going to the Legislature would suit us, and you may 'count us out' of the chase.

Judge Upchurch told us yesterday that not a single person had been in his office on business during the week.

The train from the West reached here two hours late yesterday. It was detained by a broken down engine at University Station.

The late office of Parker & Avera, now moving down Wilmington street, will conclude its journey on the corner of Salisbury and Jones streets.

We saw in Mr. A. W. Haywood's law office yesterday a very fine bust of the late Chief Justice Pearson, executed by a Philadelphia firm.

Mr. J. C. Brewster is agent for the "XX" canvas cots, and advertises them in to-day's NEWS. He also has a full line of hardware, stoves, &c.

In St. Mary's the farmers are pushing their work, especially the young ones, and we are promised a fine crop of marriage notices from this township next fall.

A Mr. Chamble, from the country, dropped a purse containing $122 on Wilmington street yesterday morning. Mr. George Goldman found it and returned it to him.

A little boy whose name we failed to learn was quite badly hurt by a piece of falling scantling while playing in Messrs. Parker & Avera's new cellar yesterday.

Panther Branch reports that its cotton has all been chopped out and sided up, that the stand is perfect, that other crops are in good condition and that the health of the people is good.

Messrs. Ellington, Royster & Co. offer to build houses and to furnish lumber, sashes, doors and blinds at prices beyond competition. Read what they say in their double-column advertisement and write to them for estimates.

Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker present a new lot of business items this morning. We stepped into their store yesterday and found about forty customers busy buying the beautiful fabrics with which their counters are piled as if the season was just beginning.

Some one has put a letter in the post office directed to A. J. Stewart, Kelvyn Grove, Wake county, but whoever it was only put a one cent stamp on, and the chances are that unless they come up with two cents more, A. J. will die in ignorance of the contents of his letter.

The Raleigh Gun Club shot its regular weekly match yesterday afternoon. Mr. John D. Creech was winner by a score of 17 out of 20 and now holds the badges for both rifle and glass ball shooting. The gentlemen who shot the big match on Wednesday had too much soreness of shoulder to join in the match yesterday.

How would it do for the city to buy a street sprinkler and use the Rescue horses to keep the dust down on Fayetteville street? The horses would not be far enough from the engine house to cause any great delay in case of fire, it would be of great service to the dry goods merchants, it would give the people great relief and the exercise would help the horses.

The Chemicals gave their engine a thorough washing out yesterday and refilled the tank, ready as usual for any alarm. We learn that this fine company will soon be furnished with a double tank engine and pair of horses, and the boys really deserve that this should be done. It is as well disciplined and as well organized a volunteer fire company as we have ever seen. They are almost invariably first at every fire and always do good service. The only objection to them to us is that they generally put out a fire so quickly that it is not allowed time to furnish a good local.

A SINGING SNAKE.—For some weeks past strains of the sweetest music have been heard by passers along the Fayetteville road just at the top of the high hill beyond Tucker's mill. It was at first thought that the sounds proceeded from a peculiarly skilful mocking bird and so the matter passed for some time. At length a number of the youth of the vicinity took the task of investigating the matter in hand. They found under a small bush a small rattlesnake about 3½ feet long, and by a series of experiments proved beyond the possibility of cavil that this snake was the proximate cause of the mysterious music. The music made by it is a succession of notes partaking of the characteristics of those of the cat-bird and mocking-bird, but much sweeter than either. Besides these natural notes the snake whistles three notes of Dixie which it is supposed he learned from the choppers in the neighboring cotton-fields. The boys who found this natural wonder were about to destroy it, but Dr. Blacknall, of the Yarborough House, from whom we learned the foregoing facts, was opportunely passing by and saved it, and will have it on exhibition at the hotel as soon as Tom Arrington's animal cage finishes its tour of service as street sprinkler.

FOLLOWING GEORGE.—A gentleman of this city has a son averaging about four years old. We say averaging that age because when the youngster begins a search for information the stupendous depth of his questions indicates at least a thousand years of practice in puzzling. The gentleman referred to has or rather had a pet tomato plant on which he had lavished the choicest treasures of the watering-pot and which promised by early fruition to reward his fostering care. On Sunday this gentleman took the small boy for a walk in Capitol Square and the youngster was deeply interested in the statue of G. Washington and in the inevitable story of the little hatchet. Yesterday morning the fond father went to water his tomato plant and found that the small boy had "done it with his little hatchet."

RACING NOTES.—In the Stanley stakes at Epsom England, Mr. Lorillard's Paw-Paw ran second—Paw-Paw is a full brother to the great Parole.

The Wanderer filly Mary Lanphier won the Vernal Sweepstakes, for three-year olds, at Baltimore in the good time for that track of 1.44.

Lexington won the three-quarter mile dash on the opening day of the California races in 1.15¼. This is within one fourth of a second of First Chance's best on record, made at Philadelphia in 1876.

The two-year-old stakes at Epsom yesterday was won by Mr. Lorillard's Iroquois. This makes two starts and two wins for this promising son of Saxon.

ALMOST A FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon a small oil stove in use in Mr. Armstrong's book-bindery took fire in the reservoir, and for a few moments things looked promising for a first-class advertisement of Pratt's Astral Oil. The matter was, however, nipped in the bud by two colored boys employed in Messrs. Uzzell & Wiley's printing establishment, who came gamely to the front and threw the blazing machine from the third story into the street. The only damage done was the burning of a couple of aprons in the book-bindery and a horse-blanket which was hanging in front of W. B. Hutchings, although some foot passengers dodged just in time.

FROG SHOOTING—A CHALLENGE.—Mr. Paul Lincke challenges the champion for the championship a match of fifty frogs, to be shot from the latest improved trap, 50 yards boundary. All frogs must be shot at on the first leap, with a rifle or cannon. No entrance fee. Seats will be reserved for the ladies, and all arrangements will be made to accommodate the guests. All frogs must fall in bounds, otherwise will be scored as lost. The winner to receive the fore legs. Mr. Lincke has a record of 33 out of 34, and we have no doubt it will be interesting and exciting.

POLICE.—Robert Harris was before the Mayor yesterday, on a charge of obtaining goods from Pritchard & Brooks on false pretences. He went to jail in default of $50 bail.

Ed. Bryan and Frank Yarborough had a fight. The Mayor fined them $3.25 each. They were unable to pay, and went to jail for fifteen days.

PERSONALS.—Ex-Judge Watts, formerly of this judicial district, is one of the census takers for Brunswick county.

Dr. Pride Jones, of Orange, was in the city yesterday.

Attorney General Kenan is visiting his old friends in Wilson.

DIED.—This morning, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. E. D. Haynes, Mrs. Mary Royster, relict of the late William H. Royster, aged 67 years.

A thirty hours' swim was undertaken by a young lady in England a fortnight ago. Before entering the water, Miss Beckwith invited several ladies into her dressing-room to see that she had no assistance in the way of concealed floating supports. She swam in the whale tank, which was surrounded by spectators, who frequently applauded occasional displays of ornamental swimming. She continued gliding easily along the forty feet of water in the tank, varying the breast swimming by occasional changes to the side and back and by easy floating. She took coffee and beef tea from a floating table. During the night she amused herself by singing and reading, the latter process being accomplished by floating on her back, and holding the book in both hands.

What North Carolinians are Doing.

GLEANINGS FROM STATE EXCHANGES.

Winston's colored population, the Sentinel says, has doubled itself by immigration since January.

The Charlotte Cotton Factory will be in operation on October, the Observer of that town says, and it is thought that it will be the best in the State.

The Review notes the shipment, on Tuesday, of the largest cargo of Spirits Turpentine ever taken from Wilmington; 4,100 casks of Spirits, and 402 barrels of rosin.

The Winston Sentinel reports much sickness in the neighborhood of Sandy Spring, Yadkin county. Twenty deaths are reported in two weeks from flux and other complaints.

The Goldsboro Messenger says that the closing exercises of Goldsboro Seminary, Prof. Troy, Principal, will take place June 23d and 24th. Hon. A. S. Merrimon will deliver the address, on the evening of the 23d. On the evening of the 24th, the pupils will give a social party.

The Chatham Record says that "it is now exceedingly dry, many of the mills being unable to grind on account of the scarcity of water, and the smaller streams are about as low as they ever become. The gardens are suffering for want of rain, but we are pleased to learn that the field crops are doing well."

After all there is good in the soulless corporations The Milton Chronicle says that "the railroads are just now feeding this tobacco country—furnishing us with nearly all that we eat—bacon, corn and flour—and but for them dumb brutes would be on very short rations two-thirds of the year. Stop abusing the railroads."

Will McCorkle, of Salisbury, son of Mr. J. M. McCorkle, and William Bailey, son of Mr. W. H. Bailey, of Charlotte, had a fight at Marion on Sunday last, the Charlotte Observer learns. Both the young men are members of a party of revenue raiders now operating in the mountain region. Bailey received two flesh wounds in the legs. The wounds are not serious, and at last accounts Bailey was doing very well.

Ex-Congressman Avery of Tennessee, who was drowned near Memphis a few days ago, was brother to Mrs. Merriwether, the author of "The Master of Red Leaf." The Wilmington Star says that he was of North Carolina stock, and belonged to the family who settled Averasborough, Harnett county. After leaving North Carolina they changed the spelling of their name from Avera to Avery.

The Goldsboro Messenger says that "it is exceedingly dry in this section; at present writing, water-mills are failing, wells are getting quite low, and crops are suffering more or less from the drought. The wheat and oat crops are seriously hurt by the drought, and many of our farmers have not yet gotten through with their cotton and corn planting, while a good deal already planted has not yet come up."

The Wilmington Review says that at a meeting of the Directors of the Duplin Canal, held in Wilmington Saturday morning, it was reported by the Superintendent that one and a quarter miles have been cut and are now ready for sluicing. The sluicing will commence as soon as the dam is repaired, which was torn down a short time since by some of the citizens living in the neighborhood of the work.

The Asheville Journal is glad to know that there is a probability of the Spartanburg and Asheville Railroad being completed from its present terminus to that point shortly. It says: "The creditors and stockholders of the road met at Spartanburg on last Tuesday to consider a proposition made by Mr. R. Y. McAden, of Charlotte. Mr. McAden proposes to furnish money to do the work, if the creditors and stockholders will agree to give him a first mortgage on the road between this place and Hendersonville."

The Newbern Record says that "Mr. Bridgers, President of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, is in the city, simply talking with the people, we believe, as to the utility of a lease of the Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad. This paper proposes to go very slowly on these railroad questions. We never considered the antagonism of Wilmington to Newbern on this subject of a transfer such a bugbear as some other gentlemen seem to understand it. Nevertheless, the future interest of this section is a paramount consideration with us. We must see clearly, that a lease of this road is to be not only a negative but positive benefit to this city, before we endorse it."

Col. Jno. D. Stanford furnishes the Wilmington Review with the following list of census enumerators:—

Brunswick County—J. W. King, Samuel R. Chinnis, George Leonard, S. W. Watts, John H. Mintz, H. F. Walker, John N. Burnett.

Columbus County—W. T. Hall, James M. Shipman, J. A. Elderdice, E. W. Wooten, J. D. Maultsby, D. T. McNeill, Francis Lennon, W. H. Chancey.

Bladen County—John H. Ballentine, C. S. Edwards, James I. McDougald, J. McKay Robeson, J. W. Fuller, W. K. Cromartie, J. Morris Bryan, T. F. Pridgen, D. R. Leonard, A. H. Perry, George W. Benson, Jas. A. Kelly, T. S. Whitted.

At the late meeting of the stockholders of the Chester & Lenoir Narrow Gauge Railroad, held in Chester, the Charlotte Observer says, a resolution was unanimously passed, proposing the funding of certain debts, and recommending that a mortgage of $250,000 be placed on the road between Chester and Newton, in North Carolina, $200,000 of the amount to be used in building the road as far as Lincolnton, and in funding all outstanding indebtedness of the road. $100,000 will be sufficient for this latter purpose. The remaining $50,000 is to be used exclusively in constructing the road from Lincolnton to Newton. These arrangements will be carried out immediately.

W. C. Hadley, formerly of Chatham, died in Lenoir county a few days ago. The Kinston Journal records a remarkable instance of his fraternal love, that occurred at the battle of Orange Court House during the late war. He was Lieutenant in the Second North Carolina Cavalry, and his brother was a member of the same company. He promised this younger brother if he should be killed on the battle field not to leave his body, but have it carried home. In the engagement this noble boy was pierced through the head by a minie ball, and W. C. Hadley, true to his promise, dismounted, placed his dead, bleeding body across the front of his saddle, and carried it, in retreat, before a pursuing enemy, twenty miles.

It is pleasant to read at last more cheerful accounts of the growing crops. The Winston Sentinel says that "despite the complaint of rust and other imperfections of the wheat crop, our farmers will receive rich returns." And the Milton Chronicle reports fine rains on the 22d and 23d inst. They were so timely that our friend thinks it likely "some people planted tobacco on Sunday. If they did they may look out for bad luck in some way, as this was pushing the 'ox' into the mire instead of pulling it out. You can't fool your Creator." And the Reidsville Weekly says that "our section has been visited since our last issue by the most propitious and favorable season the farmers have enjoyed for a long time. Saturday evening the gentle rain began to fall and it continued to fall just as the most sanguine could have wished until Monday morning, and if ever tobacco plants were stuck in the ground, it has been done for the last day or two."

POLITICAL NEWS ITEMS:—

The Chowan Democratic Convention on the 22d, which instructed for Gov. Jarvis, did the same for Superintendent Scarborough.

Florida Democrats boast that since their party got into power in that State, in 1876, it has reduced the taxes from $422,247 to $249,879 a year. Floating debts to the amount of more than a quarter of a million dollars have also been paid off, and the credit of the State has been brought up to par from sixty or seventy cents on the dollar.

The New York Tribune says that the Grant leaders have arranged to keep control of the Chicago Convention by forcing the unit rule on all questions upon delegations from States in which it was adopted. Senator Cameron and his sub-committee will decide who shall be admitted to the Exposition Building, both as delegates and spectators. Mr. Cameron is already on the ground. William E. Chandler is in Chicago, and is confident as ever of the nomination of Senator Blaine.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS:—

Mr. James M. Swank, whose careful reports on the iron trade are among the most valuable contributions to American industrial statistics, has just published the annual report of the Iron and Steel Association, of which he is secretary. It shows that the production of iron in 1879 in the United States surpassed that of any previous year in our history.

There is strong opposition to the confirmation of Gen. Longstreet as Minister to Turkey. This exists not because after being one of Lee's most trusted lieutenants, he took sides with the negroes and carpet-baggers of Louisiana against the real people of that State, but it grows out of the fact, that he was not only a member of the notorious Louisiana Returning Board, but as the commandant of the negro police ordered them to fire on his own people.

The news from the Missouri Democratic State Convention which met Wednesday indicates that Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, has a powerful following in that State; and it has been conceded for some time that his own State is for him. Tuesday night a meeting of gentlemen from different States was held at Willard's and inaugurated a Morrison boom. A number of Democratic representatives in commenting on this Morrison movement, says the Dispatch's letter, spoke not only most favorably in regard to it, but in affectionate terms of their brave Illinois colleague. General Hunton says no man ever carried more honesty into the White House than William Morrison would if elected to the Presidency. He is a very candid man, but his manners under provocation are not at all times those of Chesterfield.

The rumor is repeated to-day, says the Dispatch Washington letter of yesday, that Senator Blaine will go to Chicago and direct his fight in person. This looks like a hand-and-hand encounter; and is a warning to the Grant managers that if they win it will be after the hardest battle ever fought in the history of American politics at a National Convention. Blaine's friends here are anything but downhearted, and are either in earnest in claiming that their leader will win, or are the best actors I ever saw. The Grant men, on the other hand, believe that tricks greater than any yet performed will be resorted to, if necessary, to secure Grant's nomination, and I feel certain their faith is well founded.

The great excitement in Wall Street consequent upon the heavy fall in the coal stocks continued through the early hours of business yesterday, the Tribune of the 26th says. These stocks suffered a further heavy decline, and at times there were serious fears of a panic. The decline was extended to other stocks. The sudden changes in price were attended with much excitement, and there was a strong probability, when matters were at their worst, that the panic of last November would be repeated. The market, however, took a sudden turn upward under vigorous buying, and the early losses were recovered generally before the close of business. No failures were announced, and the reports of the embarrassments of leading operators could not be verified. That large losses have been suffered during the last few weeks is beyond doubt, but they appear to have fallen chiefly on men who are able to bear them.

One hundred and one is an unusual mark of the thermometer in New England at this season. But so it is announced for yesterday. This high temperature was not general over the United States. At Pittsburg the mercury registered 91 deg., at Philadelphia 92 deg., and at Albany 90 deg.; but at Cleveland it was down at 74 deg., and at Chicago it did not go above 73 deg. The people of New Orleans, like those of Chicago, were enjoying the pleasant temperature of 73 deg., which is pretty near the golden mean for May weather.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS:—

Times have changed in Europe. A nobleman has just been arrested for stealing three dollars. There was a day when most noblemen considered it the preper thing to live by robbery and when nobody dared to object.

The London Standard's Vienna correspondent says: "A most painful sensation has been caused here by the sudden insanity of one of Austria's highest dignitaries, Prince William of Montenuovo, son of the Archduchess Maria Louise, formerly wife of Napoleon I. by her second morganatic marriage with Count de Niepperg, having been conveyed to a lunatic asylum. Pecuniary trouble is the cause of his misfortune."

With William Black, the novelist, the writing of stories is a business. He is shrewd, practical and quick. He has a second wife. At Brighton he has a beautiful house which overlooks the ocean. He makes about $25,000 a year from his writings. He does not depend upon a publisher for a percentage; he gives one to a publisher. Black was born in Glasgow and is in his fortieth year. He went to no college, and his journalistic work was on the London News.

Mosul, the centre of the famine district in Asiatic Turkey from which an earnest appeal for aid has just been made to the United States, is situated in what was ancient Mesopotamia. It is of much historic interest, being on the right bank of the Tigris, 180 miles from Bagdad, and opposite the ruins of ancient Nineveh, capital of the great Assyrian Empire, and frequently referred to in the Scriptures. Mosul is commonly more prosperous than most Turkish towns, in consequence of its caravan trade. Its prosperity is nothing, however, to what it was in the Middle Ages, when it supplied all Europe with its rich manufactures. According to Marco Polo, muslins got their name from this place, whose bazaars are now filled with products of the West. The population is estimated at from 20,000 to 40,000, of whom one-fourth may be Christians.

A new conference of the European Powers is on hand for the summer, at the suggestion of England. The questions to be considered relate to the unexecuted promises of the Treaty of Berlin, in regard to Montenegro, Albania, and Greece. The Montenegrin boundary is of the most pressing importance. The heroic mountaineers were shabbily treated at Berlin. They had won three harbors, but two were taken away, and the third was given to them under humiliating conditions. The territory which Russia had allowed them to hold under the Treaty of San Stefano lay mainly in the north, where the inhabitants were of the same race as themselves. This they were not allowed to keep, and their conquests in the south were reduced. Two years have passed, and they have not been put in possession of the meagre district which was ceded to them. The Albanians are in open revolt against Europe, and the Porte is secretly providing them with arms and ammunition. In this crisis Lord Granville demands that the territory which belongs to Montenegro under the public law of Europe shall be reconquered by the Turks and surrendered once for all. The Greek question, which has been dragging for so many months, is to be reopened by the appointment of an International Commission, and the Porte is to be reminded that in the Treaty of Berlin reforms were promised in Armenia, and the pledge has not been redeemed.

It is at last settled that the lady who has married Mr. Cross is really "George Eliot," and not the lady who bore the legal title of Mrs. Lewes. Mr. Cross is 20 years the junior of his bride, but is, according to his relatives, infatuated with the literary talents and charming conversational powers of the eminent author. As proof of the fact that Mr. Cross did not "marry for money" it is stated that he insisted on having his wife's large fortune settled upon the children of the original Mrs Lewes, and that was done. Apropos to the wedding, the story is told in London that George Eliot, in her novel of "Middlemarch" drew herself as Dorothy, and her husband, George Henry Lewes, as Casaubon. The comparison is somewhat unfair toward Lewes, because, whatever his shortcomings may have been, both as a writer and as a philosopher, he has received generous recognition from critics, whose opinions, if worth little, are at least finger marks; and his biographical history is interesting, clear and instructive Yet Lewes' first wife ran away from him, and it would not be strange if his literary wife, whose women in her novels, even when they are religious, have a great deal of flesh and blood and passion about them, should run away from him, too, in a literary way. George Eliot's women are women in whose veins the blood is as warm as Burgundy wine. They are plump and blooming. She gave Daniel Deronda to the sweet little animal rather than to the half-way Gwendolyn. No old maid whose heart was as frosty as her years could have written about the tell-tale ribbon in "Adam Bede;" and George Eliot, writing of a thunder and lightning storm while Dorothea and Ladislaw were at a window, said "Her lips trembled, and so did his. It was never known which lips were the first to move toward the other lips; but they kissed tremblingly, and then they moved apart."

Machine vs. Hand-Work on Carpets.

[From the New York Times.]

There are few women who would not eagerly welcome any invention whereby the unsatisfactory carpet-shaking colored man should be superseded by really efficient carpet-shaking machinery. Such an alleged invention was recently brought to the knowledge of Mrs. Peters, of Westboro, N. H., and was hailed by that excellent woman with great enthusiasm.

The agent who sold Mrs. Peters the Columbian Carpet-shaking Machine explained to her the way in which it worked. The machine consisted of a large wire-gauze cylinder, in which a carpet could be placed, and which was revolved at a high speed by clock-work. Within the cylinder was a collection of flails and brushes, which, when put in motion by its revolution, thoroughly beat and swept the carpet. The agent asserted that his machine would "thoroughly remove all dust and extraneous substances from the texture of the carpet, would destroy moths and other deleterious insects, and would impart a beautiful gloss to the surface of any carpet, rug, or blanket, that might be submitted to its action." When he had tested its effect upon the parlor carpet, Mrs. Peters was so charmed that she bought the machine on the spot, and as soon as the agent had gone she took up the dining room carpet, and put it in the cylinder.

For some reason the machine could not be made to work, and Mrs. Peters, thinking that there must be something wrong, took out the carpet and crept into the cylinder in order to see if any of the flails or brushes were out of order. Suddenly, and without the least warning, the diabolical machine began to work. The cylinder revolved with tremendous rapidity, and the flails and brushes did their whole duty. The machine could not be stopped until the clockwork had run down, and the agent had warranted it to run for twenty minutes. During that time the machine was busily occupied in removing all dust and extraneous substances from the texture of Mrs. Peters, in destroying all moths and other deleterious insects, and in imparting a beautiful gloss to Mrs. Peters's surface. In fact, it did everything that the agent said that it would do, but when, four weeks later, Mrs. Peters was able to rise from her sick-bed, her first act was to hire a colored man to cart the machine down to the Connecticut River and throw it into the deepest available pool.

In spite of this impulsive and irritable conduct on the part of an otherwise estimable lady, the Columbia Carpet-shaking Machine may prove to be all that its agent claims for it, and may yet be a blessing to the house-wife. If women will have carpets shaken, it is desirable that they should be well shaken, and if this machine really does meet this want, it ought to gain a lasting popularity among earnest and careful housewives.

A. S. BARNES & CO.,

111 and 113 William Street,

NEW YORK.

Readers and Spellers:

WATSON'S NEW SERIES.

The lower numbers of this reading series are remarkable for the "word-building system," the high order of the illustrations, and the interesting but strictly progressive character of the reading lessons. The higher volumes challenge comparison on account of their elocutionary treatises and the noble range of selection from standard literature.

Independent Primary Reader.
" Second Reader.
" Third Reader.
" Fourth Reader.
" Fifth Reader.
" Complete Speller.

CLARK'S DIAGRAMMAR

will eventually supersede all others. No other system makes the study so pre eminently interesting. Its principal peculiarity is the device for confirming oral and written instruction in the parts of speech, their relations, etc., by appeals to the eye and the faculty of order or arrangement.
Clark's Brief English Grammar.
" Normal Grammar.

MONTEITH'S GEOGRAPHIES

have been officially adopted for the following States: Alabama, Vermont, Minnesota, Texas, Missouri, Virginia, Tennessee, Kansas, Iowa, Delaware, Nebraska, North Carolina, Louisiana, Utah, Wyoming, Dakotah, Colorado, Florida, Oregon, and California.

BARNES' BRIEF HISTORIES.

These charming volumes are as attractive in language and "make-up" as they are thorough in practical facilities for the learner. Although so recently published, it is believed that the United States History is already more extensively used than any other of its grade.
A brief History of the United States.
A brief History of the World (in press.)
A brief History of France.

DAVIES' MATHEMATICS

are justly called the National Standard. They are used in the great National Schools at Annapolis and West Point, in the public schools of the National Capital, have received the quasi endorsement of the National Congress, and are more popular in every section of the national boundary than any other series.

Since the death of Dr. Davies (in 1876), his work has been carried on by Dr. W. G. Peck (who was his trusted colleague), and under whose supervision the following entirely new series of text-books has been prepared, covering the whole science:

Davies' & Peck's brief Arithmetic.
" " complete Arithmetic.
Peck's Manual of Algebra.
Peck's Manual of Geometry.
Peck's Practical Calculus.
Peck's Analytical Geometry.

STEELE'S NATURAL SCIENCE.

The "Fourteen Weeks" books in each science are very popular on account of the brief but intensely interesting and practical presentation of the subjects.

Steele's 14 weeks in Natural Philosophy.
" " Chemistry.
" " Astronomy.
" " Geology.
" " Physiology.
" " Zoology.
" " Botany.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES.

—BY—

B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., Gottingen, LL.D., Professor of Greek in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Rarely have text-books been greeted with so large a measure of favor and hearty appreciation, as these books by Professor Gildersleeve have received from the best scholastic and educational minds of the country. The author, now of national reputation as a scholar, has had very complete preparation for such a work. After being graduated at Princeton, he studied for several years in the Universities of Germany, where he received his Ph.D., etc., with highest honors. His subsequent life has been devoted to teaching and linguistic study. When the new and richly endowed Johns Hopkins University sought for a fit man for its chair of Greek, the appointment was conferred on Prof. Gildersleeve, after wide conference, and without his solicitation or effort, and his work as senior professor of the University attracts marked attention. He is also the presiding officer of the American Philogical Association.

Prof. Gildersleeve's Latin books are the product of this order of ability and educational training. Embodying the best results of recent studies in Latin philology, they are simple, clear and practical in method.

THE LATIN PRIMER,

complete in itself, a naturally developed course for beginners, at once holds the interest of the pupil, and prepares him thoroughly for ready and intelligent use of Grammar and Reader, or Latin author. It supplies: "Maximum of Forms; Minimum of Syntax; Early Contact with the Language in Mass."

A teacher in one of the leading High Schools of the country, who conducted a large class through this book, writes:

"We have just finished the Primer, having spent upon it thirty-four weeks; and I have been trying to realize my pupils' attitude towards the study, as compared with that of other classes I have known. They have the use of a larger vocabulary; their text-book has secured for them a careful drill in the normal terminations; they have been brought more into contact with the language in the concrete, and have, therefore, a more vivid interest in it; and they have been less perplexed by exceptional forms and difficult construction.

"The book is thoroughly alive, and will perforce make its students so."

THE LATIN GRAMMAR

is marked by its genuine scholarship, clear and logical arrangement of material, and a typography that pleasantly aids the eye. Its presentation of forms is plain and convenient; its definitions, rules and other statements are brief and pointed; and its translations of illustrative examples are most striking models for students.

THE LATIN READER

has Fables and Stories; "De Gestis Alexandri," a most interesting narrative, chiefly from Curtius; one book of Cæsar's "De Bello Gallico," treated in a manner to make it an admirable drill in Latin Syntax; also notes and References to the Grammar, and a Vocabulary.

THE LATIN EXERCISE-BOOK,

a book of Latin Composition, compact in form, is noticeable for its well-graded course of exercises, apt choice of idioms, and adaptation to train the average learner to a thorough mastery of the words and constructions of the language.

Single specimen copies for examination furnished on receipt of the following prices:

LATIN PRIMER, 12mo, 192 pages	$0 65
LATIN GRAMMAR, 12mo, 384 pages	95
LATIN READER, 12mo, 192 pages	70
LATIN EXERCISE-BOOK, 12mo, 186 pages	70

W. E. TANNER & CO.,

Canal Street, from 6th to 7th,
RICHMOND.

ENGINES, portable and stationary. Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Boilers, Castings of Brass and Iron, Forgings, &c. Machinery for Gold and Coal Mines, Blast Furnaces, &c.

We call special attention to our Improved Portable Engine, for Agricultural and other purposes. The Boilers of our Agricultural Engines are provided with our Patent Premium Spark Extinguisher, a device by which the sparks are forced to pass downward over a reservoir of water and effectually extinguished without the use of wire gauze. Ours is the only arrangement of this kind which affords free access to the boiler tubes for cleaning from each end. The officers of a large number of the best Insurance Companies pronounce this Spark Extinguisher perfect in its operation.

New styles SMALL LOCOMOTIVES for hauling lumber, and other articles upon tramways and narrow gauge railways.

The best Planters regard our GINNING ENGINES superior to any in use. Send for Illustrated Catalogue free. Other things being equal, encourage Southern institutions

Repair work solicited and promptly done.

Shafting, Pulleys, &c., for Gin Houses.

Manufacturers of Jones' Patent Tobacco Lump Machines to work by hand or power.
